

Resource Directory

Jonathan Loera

I plan on graduating with a degree in Criminal Justice and Rehabilitation and working as law enforcement. I come from Minnesota and know that the working benefits are better there, but I plan on doing my police academy in Wisconsin, then move to a city in Minnesota. So, I picked resources in Hudson to research because it is really close to Minnesota and still in Wisconsin. Also, Hudson is a pretty big city so I hope I can get a lot of my resources from the Hudson area or at least in western Wisconsin, like Dunn County, St. Croix. Pierce, or Polk county.

Since I plan to work in law enforcement, I know the population I will serve or work for is essentially everyone, so I need resources for almost everything. So, I went on to try to find different types of resources so I could help all kinds of people for whatever their needs are. I plan to use these on my job for every day use. It would help me out tremendously since I would already have a list of the resources in the area to refer people to if they need help and it would help my co-workers too since I can share a copy with them.

I organized my resources based on growing problems with covid-19, so I started with shelters then to food pantries. Since covid hit the US the number of people living out on the street and families living in food insecurity has grown exponentially, so I know people will be looking for shelters and families are in need into food more now than ever. Then I followed with Dental and health clinics, Rehab Centers, and Mental Centers. I found clinics and centers around western Wisconsin and the twin cities for free or low paying clinics and dental clinics. Then found Rehab Programs and Mental Health Programs. Lastly, I finished it with Educational services and Employment services, not that these are less important than any other. These can help families who want to further their careers in life by getting help with school for a higher education or helping family/kids in school and find lifelong careers that can give benefits and a stable life.

This will help me tremendously because I will already know of some locations of agencies, programs or help centers of western Wisconsin and of the Twin Cities area for bigger programs. So, if I encounter people who need help, I can refer back to my resource directory and find local agencies that can help them fit their needs. Also, I can inform the community I will work for of local resources that they can use or just know about if they are ever in need of help, so they can know they have someone to rely to. The main goal for the resource directory was for the betterment of the local community and helping local people to find local resources to fit their needs.
